

Laboratory Notebooks:

Your notebook should be a comprehensive, organized, and neatly written record of everything you do. The goal of any scientific notebook is to provide a complete record of the experiments performed, so that you or anyone else could return to the notebook years later and readily understand what was done, why it was done, and what was learned. In addition, anyone who reads the notebook should be able to repeat the experiments without reiterating mistakes. Text should be handwritten in ink and concise. Each experiment should be documented as follows:

- 1.) Introduction This section should describe what you are going to do and why.
- 2.) Methods This section will generally consist of protocols you are given in class. If a typed protocol is provided to you, you can insert it directly in your notebook. However, modifications to the protocol, specific problems that arise or other notes should be recorded on this protocol as you are performing the experiments. If there is insufficient space, record this information on a separate sheet. Get in the habit of writing things down as you do them!
- 3.) Results In this section, record your data carefully. Be sure to use appropriate labeling.
- 4.) Conclusion Provide an interpretation of your results and discuss how this information guides or modifies your next experiment.

Attendance:

Attendance is mandatory. If a student needs to miss a class for a legitimate reason, such as illness, proper documentation must be provided to the instructors.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES:

Academic Integrity

Cheating/plagiarism will not be tolerated. Students suspected of violating the University of Pittsburgh Policy on Academic Integrity, from the February 1974 Senate Committee on Tenure and Academic Freedom reported to the Senate Council, will be required to participate in the outlined procedural process as initiated by the instructor. A minimum sanction of a zero score for the quiz or exam will be imposed.

View the complete policy at www.cfo.pitt.edu/policies/policy/02/02-03-02.html.

Student Conduct

In keeping with the University of Pittsburgh Student Code of Conduct, all students are expected to behave as respectful and civil members of the university community. All instructors and students will act in a considerate manner in order to create and maintain a classroom atmosphere that is conducive to learning. In addition to being unacceptable on the grounds of common decency, disruptive and disrespectful behavior contributes to unsafe working conditions.

Disruptive and disrespectful behavior will not be tolerated. Examples of disruptive behavior include, but are not limited to, repeated tardiness, texting in class, speaking or acting in any sexually, racially, or ethnically harassing manner, cheating, misuse and abuse of laboratory equipment and material, disregarding any safety guidelines. Disruptive students will be referred to the Office of Student Conduct for mediation, discipline, or both.

Disability Services

If you have a disability for which you are or may be requesting an accommodation, you are encouraged to contact both your instructor and the Office of Disability Resources and Services, 140 William Pitt Union, 412-648-7890/412-624-3346 (Fax), as early as possible in the term. Disability Resources and Services will verify your disability and determine reasonable accommodations for this course. For more information, visit www.studentaffairs.pitt.edu/drsabout.

Copyright Notice

Course materials may be protected by copyright. United States copyright law, 17 USC section 101, et seq., in addition to University policy and procedures, prohibit unauthorized duplication or retransmission of course materials. See Library of Congress Copyright Office and the University Copyright Policy.

Accessibility

Blackboard is ADA Compliant and has fully implemented the final accessibility standards for electronic and information technology covered by Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act Amendments of 1998. Please note that, due to the flexibility provided in this product, it is possible for some material to inadvertently fall outside of these guidelines.

Statement on Classroom Recording

To ensure the free and open discussion of ideas, students may not record classroom lectures, discussion and/or activities without the advance written permission of the instructor, and any such recording properly approved in advance can be used solely for the student's own private use.

E-mail Communication Policy

Each student is issued a University e-mail address (username@pitt.edu) upon admittance. This e-mail address may be used by the University for official communication with students. Students are expected to read e-mail sent to this account on a regular basis. Failure to read and react to University communications in a timely manner does not absolve the student from knowing and complying with the content of the communications. The University provides an e-mail forwarding service that allows students to read their e-mail via other service providers (e.g., Hotmail, AOL, Yahoo). Students that choose to forward their e-mail from their pitt.edu address to another address do so at their own risk. If e-mail is lost as a result of forwarding, it does not absolve the student from responding to official communications sent to their University e-mail address. To forward e-mail sent to your University account, go to <http://accounts.pitt.edu>, log into your account, click on Edit Forwarding Addresses, and follow the instructions on the page. Be sure to log out of your account when you have finished. (For the full E-mail Communication Policy, go to www.bc.pitt.edu/policies/policy/09/09-10-01.html.)

Turnitin

Students agree that by taking this course all required papers may be subject to submission for textual similarity review to Turnitin.com for the detection of plagiarism. All submitted papers will be included as source documents in the Turnitin.com reference database solely for the purpose of detecting plagiarism of such papers. Use of Turnitin.com page service is subject to the Usage Policy and Privacy Pledge posted on the Turnitin.com site.
